

AMERICAN GARDENER

AMERICAN
HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

NOVEMBER | DECEMBER 2025

WHAT WE'RE DIGGING

The fun and interesting stuff the AHS staff is chatting about.

Paris, Reimagined

Sometimes the best travel inspiration doesn't come from websites or guidebooks—it comes from design magazines. The recent special issue of Scape magazine (the international magazine of landscape architecture and urbanism) dives deep into extraordinary projects reshaping Paris. From bold public landscapes to inventive urban experiments, it's full of ideas that might just spark your next trip—or at least a fresh way of seeing the city. scapemagazine.com

Listers - Birding on the Fringe

The YouTube documentary Listers, created by Owen Reiser

Libby Ellis, Photographer

Martha's Vineyard-based photographer Libby Ellis captures flowers with a quiet intensity that feels both timeless and deeply modern. Her work, recently admired by our CEO, is worth lingering over for its painterly detail and reverence for fleeting beauty. libbyellis.com

Crop Art's Staying Power

The Smithsonian recently mounted a crop-art exhibition—yes, corn palaces and butter sculpture works, but elevated. What once felt like fair-ground kitsch now proves art rooted in seeds, grains, and harvest materials endures; it fascinates, connects generations, and reminds us that the land can be our canvas. americanart.si.edu/exhibitions/

